 accapella: 11and12 treble chorus: 9

What a true statement that is. Throughout high school I have had a chance to have some fun times with friends. I know that I will never forget MM talking in to a trash can at dunkies when coming home from the beach. I wont forget all the time that I went to the beach and to Boston. Going to the movie with KD and BT. Junior prom 05 BT ripping her dress when dropping it like its hot. I will remember all the weird conversations in accounting with DF, MR, SO, and BM. I also will remember going through tough time when a friend is dumped by there boyfriend. Well, theirs really no time like your high school years when you don't have to worry about anything other than doing your homework. I have been told that these are the best years of your life and I totally agree with that statement. Everyone should make each day the best that it can be because you have the rest or your life to worry about thing. This is the last year before we go our sperate ways, some to the work force, most to college and a few to the military. So lets make this the best year of high school class of 2006.

Oatmeal - 4 tbsp

Heather honey - 2 tsp

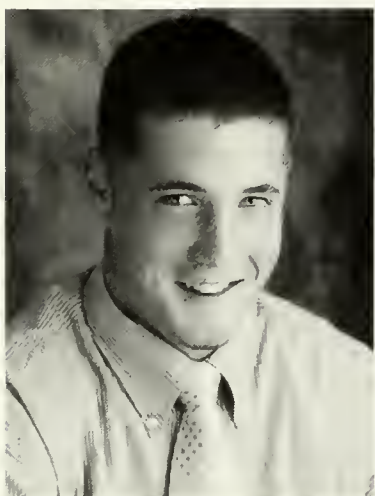

Drambuie - 1 tbsp

Double cream - 300 ml (½ pint)

Raspberries - 225 g (8 oz)

METHOD

Toast the oatmeal on a sheet of foil under the grill, stir twice so it browns evenly. Leave until cold. Add the honey and liqueur to the cream and whisk until thick. Fold in most of the oatmeal. Spoon into serving dishes and layer with the raspberries. Serve topped with the remaining oatmeal and raspberries.

Future Plans: Make a career for myself in the music business, whether it's in recording or actually playing.

Memories: Loads of laughs with Nick, Billy, Chris and the rest (alot of them at my expense, but hey). Getting a lead in drama as many times as I have. Meeting new people, in and out of school. All the great times with Cross Country: New York, Franklin Park, etc. Had a real good time at Junior Prom; hope you did too, Britt. Playing poker at Nick's, losing money, but I had fun with my friends, so I guess it was worth it. All the crazy band practices at Priority: had fun, hope it continues. P.C.C. in freshman year opened my eyes to appreciating every second of life, for I always try to now. Meeting a wonderful girl in sophomore year. Making new friends and expanding my interests in junior year. And letting myself be free in senior year. Picking up guitar for the first time. Being in metal bands and such. Getting my license, my car, all that junk. It's been great. Now I'll give a shout out to all who deserve one: Billy, Nick (Olly), Pero, Brittany, Kat, Fuller, Pat, Bailey, Tony, Tim Burns, Dunnie, Trav, Adam, Will, and everyone from Cross Country '04 and '05. Everybody from Drama (Ortenzi, Meaghan, Sam, April, if you guys read this then thanks for the good times and support and junk). Those of you in the Viking Verse, thanks for hearing my stuff out. Any teachers that have helped me along the way, such as Mr Siddiqui, Mr. Surette, Madame Gillespie, Mr./Coach McCabe, Mr. Crean, etc. Some may snicker at this, but you people really do make a real difference in our lives. And thank you Mom and Dad, without whose support I could never have made it through these times in my life. If I've forgotten anyone: sorry, you're great, too. Coming into high school I was told it was gonna be the best time of my life. I'm glad some people are still honest.

Christmas Pudding

INGREDIENTS: 110g (4 oz) each of currants, raisins, sultanas, chopped dates, chopped non-soak prunes 135g (3 oz) halved glace cherries 170g (6 oz) chopped candied peel 1 pint fresh bread-crumbs; for real luxury, use brioche crumbs 2 tbs plain flour 225g (8 oz) brown sugar 225g (8 oz) suet or butter 135g (3oz) blanched chopped almonds 1 tsp each of grated nutmeg, ground cinnamon, ground allspice salt 6 eggs

DIRECTIONS: Mix the fruit, nuts, fat, flour, breadcrumbs, spices, salt and sugar together in a large bowl. If you are using butter rather than suet, rub it into the flour first, as if making pastry. Mix thoroughly. Whisk eggs till frothy, and fold into the dry ingredients. Add the mix. Grease a 2 pint and a 1.5 pint pudding basin, and line the bottom with circles of greaseproof paper. Fill each basin three-quarters full with mixture, smooth off, and make a slight hollow in the middle. Cover with greaseproof paper and foil. Steam the 2-pint basin for at least 7 hours, and the 1.5-pint one for at least 6 hours. Remember to check the level of the water, from time to time. When cool, remove covering, and store in a cool place. Steam for at least 3 hours before serving.

Changing of the Guard

This year, East Bridgewater High School bids farewell to nine of its most dedicated and longest-serving faculty members. Their sheer number alone assures that the make-up of the High School will be vastly different next fall, and for that reason their retirements truly means the end of an era here at EBHS

Mr. T
Dear Leader

To my beloved staff:

It's hard to believe that it's already May. Especially because it's only December; but it's May as you are reading this, so I guess that's close enough for jazz. We've had an odd year, what with the yearbook office being moved into a locker on the sophomore hallway and all. But I think we've made the best of it.

To our newest staff members, McKenzie, Molly and Sam--thank you for all your hard work, even if was usually reading books for AP English. Sam, I'm glad you and I realized that we were on "the same side;" I'm awful proud of the person you've become. McKenzie, sorry I lacked insight into the works of Elie Wiesel. And to Molly, my protege--nothing beats being a Brophy. It's been fun getting to spending time with all of you.

Elizabeth and Jamie--you've done a great job stepping up to the plate; thanks for signing up for a voyage on what turned out very quickly to be a sinking ship. Jamie, special thanks for being a Jedi master, teaching our young Padawans the way of the yearbook. Shannon, thanks for making sure my hair was always cut.

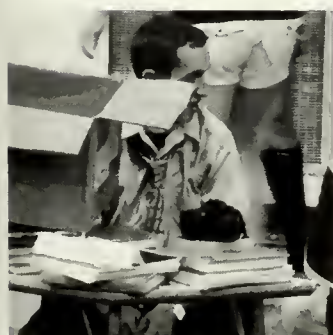

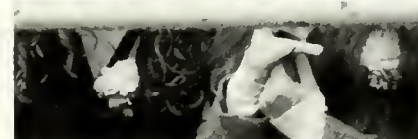

Craig--You've outgrown your young punkdom somewhat and proven yourself responsible in ways that aren't immediately evident on a yearbook page. I can easily imagine you returning to EBHS in ten years for a visit and the two of us having a knock-down drag-out fight about which of us is more awesome. I'm looking forward to it.

Tom-Lorne Michaels, producer of Saturday Night Live, has always said that he's glad to see cast members move on from the show, that he'd rather see them go before they got sick of him or he got sick of them. He made an exception though for Dana Carvey, saying that he wanted him to stay forever, that he knew that Carvey would never let him down, that he'd never get sick of him. I know I can always rely on you Tom, and if I could keep one of you forever--you'd be my Dana Carvey. Thanks for everything.

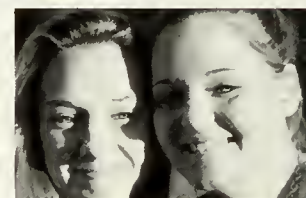

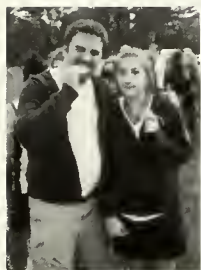

Brenna- Craig does the computers, Tommy takes the pictures, Shan sells the ad space. But if someone were to ask me what Brenna McAuliffe's role in the production of the yearbook is, I'd be hard-pressed to explain it to them. But you know; I'm not sure if a yearbook needs a heart and soul, but I am positive that the yearbook office doesn't feel like home unless you're there 90 minutes a day, as you have been for the past two years. You will be much missed.

Someday one of the four of us will write about all the misadventures that have taken place in the making of these two books. Needless to say, June 6th will be quite a sad day for this humble advisor. Luckily I will have these pages, and the memories I have of their creation to console me. I wish you all the best.

Mr. T

I Remember You Kids Before You Were the 2005 Patriot League Champions.....

Thanks for another terrific season, ladies. It's difficult to imagine being more proud of a group of individuals than I am of the lot of you. Thanks for letting me be your fake coach this past year. Best of luck to everyone, especially Molly, Jessica, Devyn, Samantha Wolfe, Jamie, Keri, Katelyn, Sam Bosco, Leah and Loraine. Until next time, I remain,

Your #1 Fan,

Mr. T

PS- Sorry I didn't bake more this season.

Will-

Were very proud of you. Best of luck to you and the Class of 2006.

Love,

Mom, Dad, and Kathleen

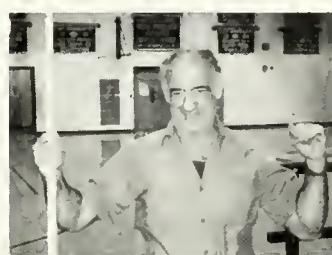

McKenzie-

Follow your dreams. You have all it takes to succeed. You've made us very proud.

OUR BELOVED REVOLUTIONARY
SWEETHEART

Kate,

We are so proud of you! We couldn't have asked for a better daughter or sister. You bring joy into our lives everyday. You have grown from our sweet little girl into a mature and beautiful young woman. Set your goals high- you are capable of reaching them. Remember that whatever you do or wherever you go, we will always be there for you. Most importantly, always be true to yourself and don't change. We love you the way you are!

Love,

How to Make a Yearbook in 7 Steps, by Samantha Wolfe, age 17

Here are seven simple steps to help you make a fabulous yearbook:

Step 1: You take two pieces of chewing gum, and stick 'em in your mouth. Step 2: Chew like crazy. Step 3: Start to exhale through your mouth, forming a bubble. Step 4: Continue blowing a bubble. Go very slowly. Step 5: Continue exhaling until the bubble can no longer hold, and it explodes all over your face. Step 6: Clean gum off face. Step 7: Now make a yearbook. See? Easy as pie!

Rick,
If playing video games were a career
choice, you would be a millionaire!
CONGRATS!!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Julianna,

Drench yourself in words unspoken,
Live your life with arms wide open,
Today is where your life begins,
The rest is still unwritten.

By Natasha Bedingfield

Love you to pieces,

Mum, Dad, and Rhiannon

Congratulations Brenna!

I hope you realize how many special memories you've made for us and how many times we have been proud to say, "That's our daughter!"

We love you!
Dad, Mom and Jay.

I initially intended to use this space to write a letter to the Class of 2006, a class that I have known for the past six years. I felt there was a lot I wanted to say to the seniors, but have since decided that it might be better if I instead let a camera do the talking for me. The first few pages are pictures you submitted for inclusion in the year-book, from the Central School and the Middle School, but eventually the pages begin to fill up with photos I have taken in my time with you at the High School. They say a picture is worth a thousand words, and in that spirit, I offer the Class of 2006 these photos in their place. It has meant a great deal to me to work with you seniors over these past few years. I'm glad to have captured so much of that time with these photographs.

My best wishes to the Class of 2006.

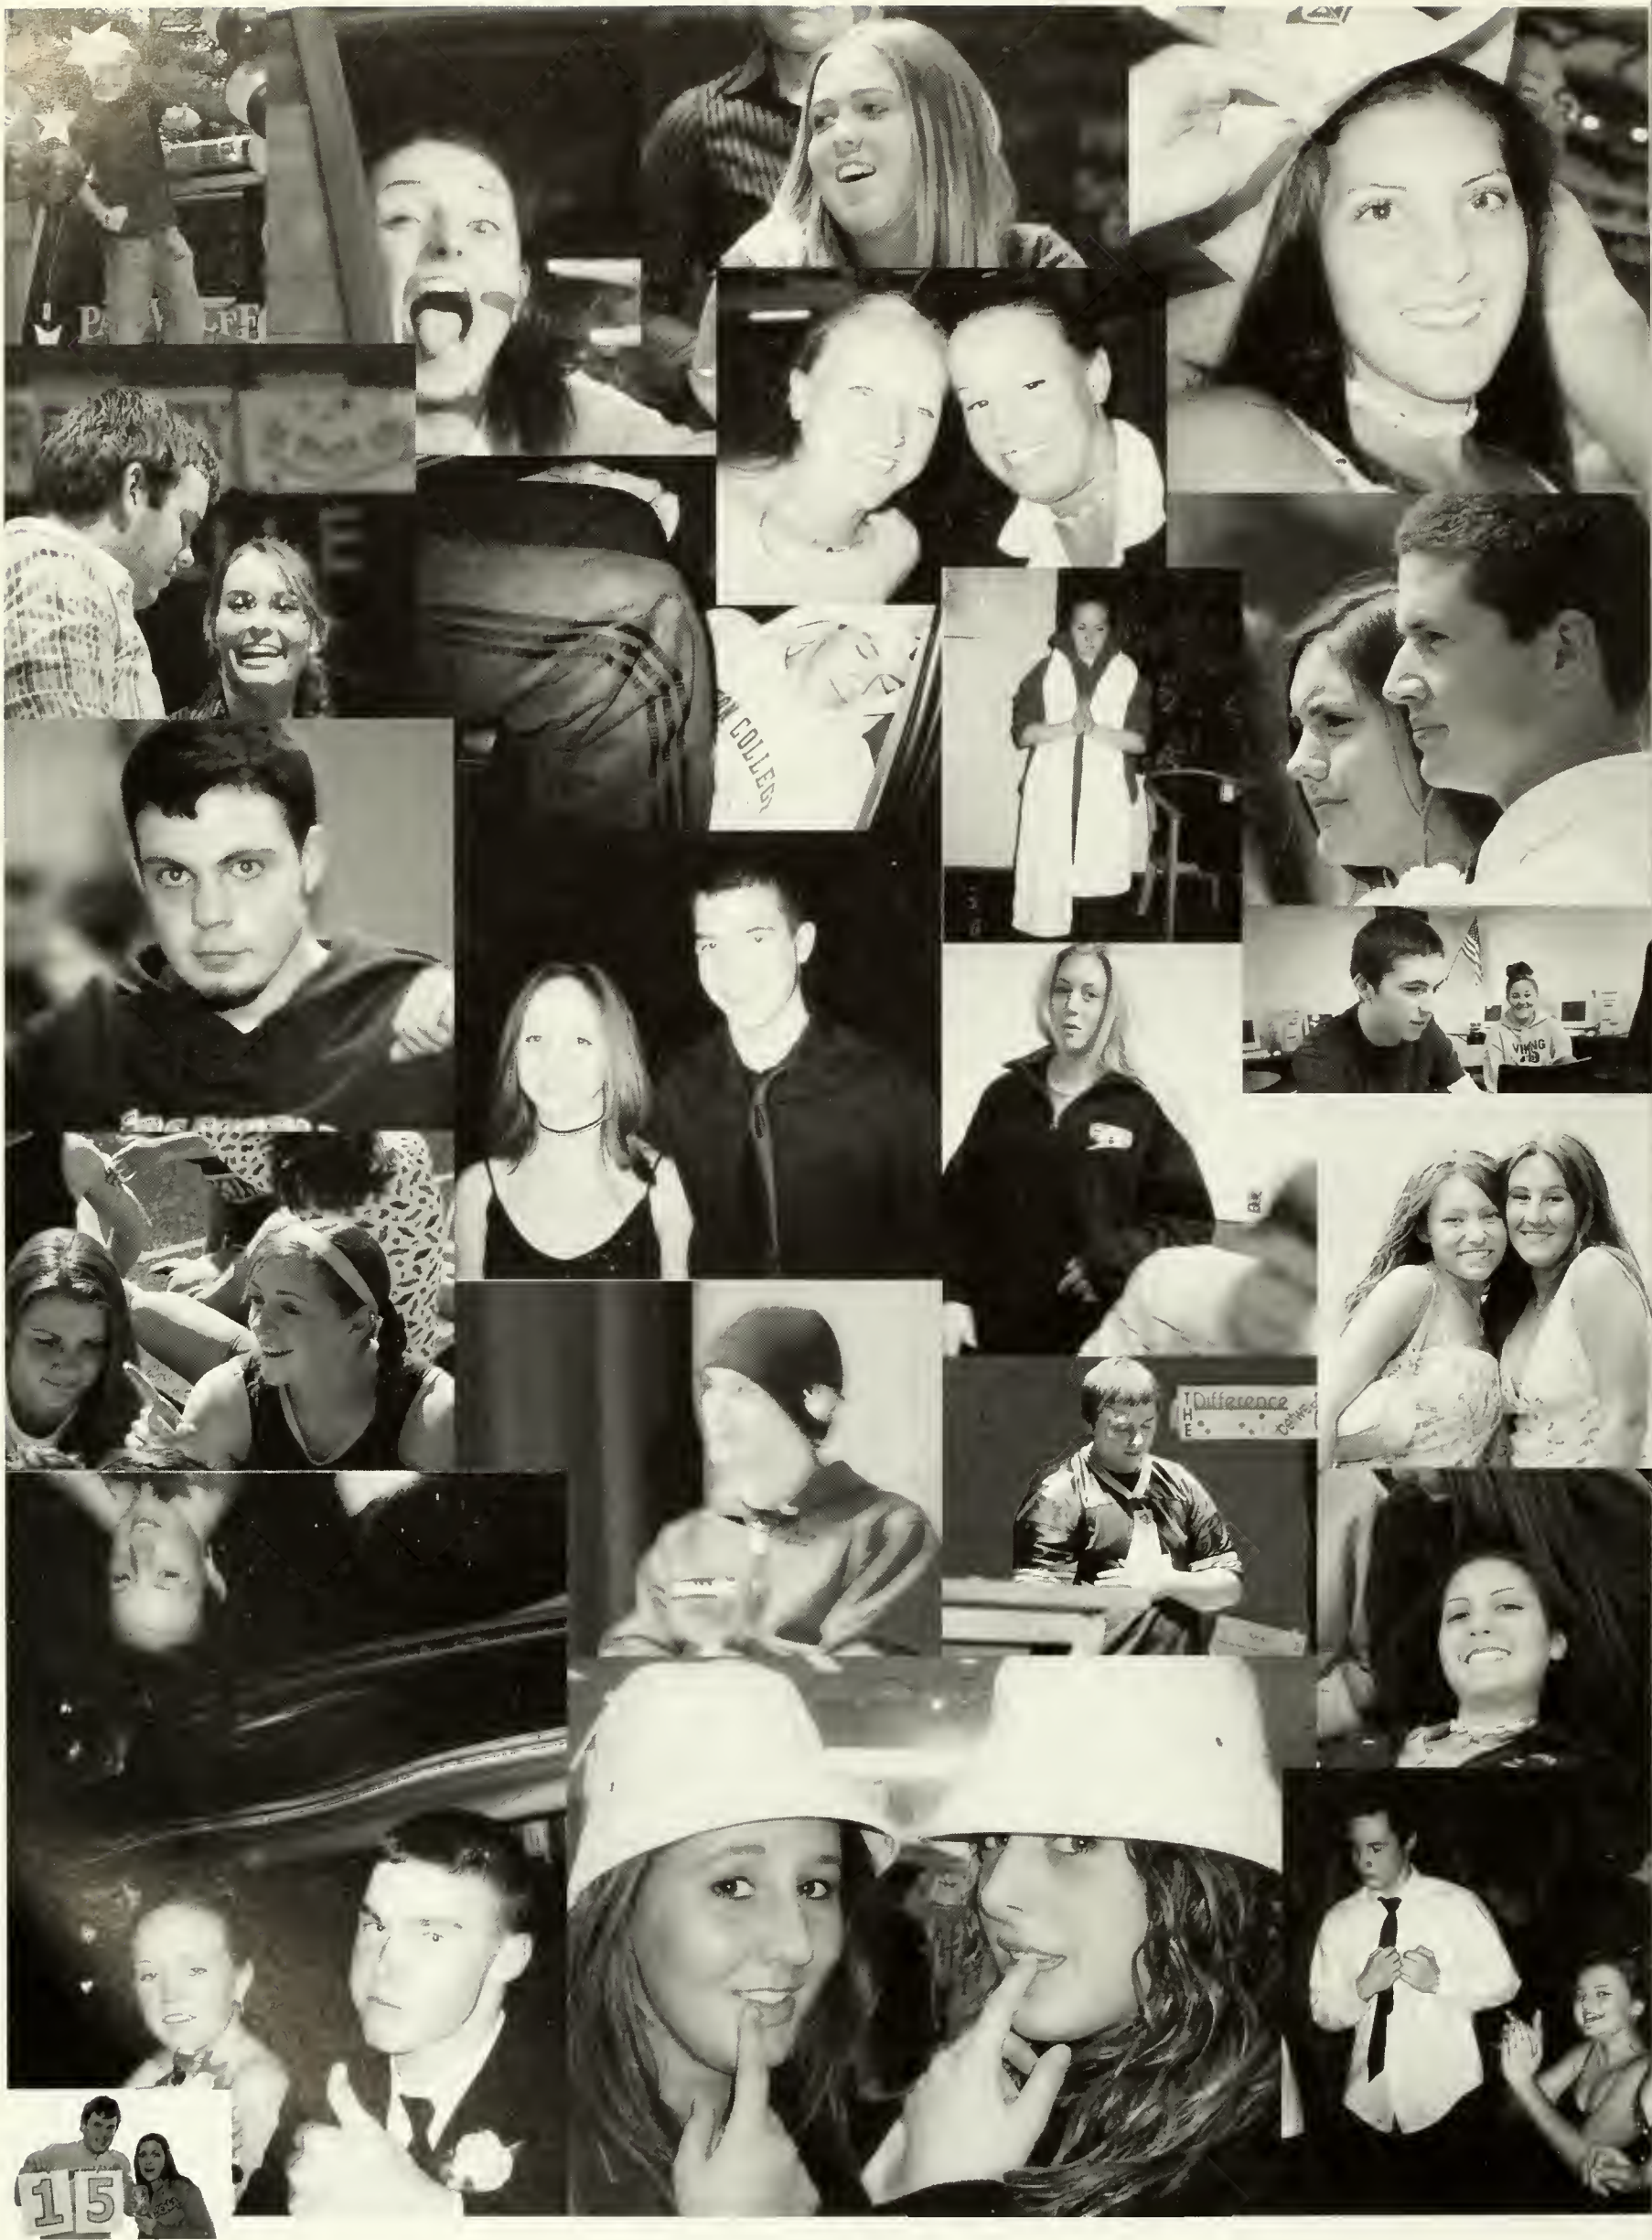

Mr. Tressel

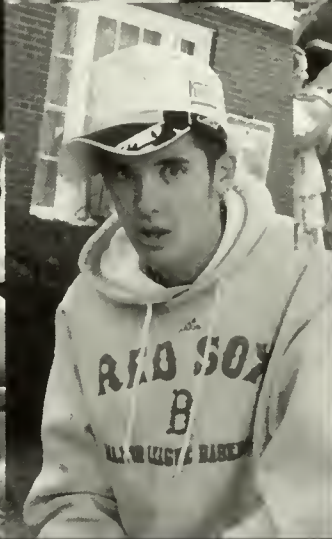

President's Farewell

As I look back on our senior year at East Bridgewater High School, I cannot help but feel a sense of pride in the Class of 2006. I have watched our class evolve over the past school year from a collection of cliques and circles of friends into one large extended family. We are a family who over the course of these four years has grown into an amazing group of individuals who will all emerge from East Bridgewater High School to begin a new and exciting phase of our lives. Although many of us will go in different directions, we will all carry with us many similar memories from our time at East Bridgewater High School. Can you remember how you felt the first day of freshmen year? Haven't we all grown so much since then? Wherever we go from here, whether it is higher education, entering the work force, or serving in the military, we are now the freshmen once again. We will all face new experiences, which we will learn from and that will help us to continue to grow. We can never stop learning. We can never stop growing. We must take advantage of every opportunity that life may offer each of us. Embrace the future, but never forget where you came from. Our education at East Bridgewater High School will be the foundation for every endeavor we attempt, every impasse in the road, and every dream that we chase for the rest of our lives.

*Wishing you all the best,
Your Class President,
Karen Zahka*
